SEWB WSDU Team Update

In the month of June KAMS SEWB team explored the following;

SEWB Manual

The KAMS WSDU and KAMS Research team have been working with our deadly partners from the Transforming Indigenous Mental Health and Wellbeing project (<https://timhwb.org.au/>) to develop a Welcome Guide for Aboriginal SEWB workers in the Kimberley.

The Welcome Guide will not replace any individual workplace orientations or inductions but instead aims to provide some specific information about the history and practice of SEWB.

The need for a Welcome Guide was identified in 2021 when Zac Cox consulted with the SEWB workforce and found that many Aboriginal staff were interested in learning more about SEWB as a framework that has been developed by Aboriginal people, for Aboriginal people, that respects and honors Aboriginal ways of being, doing and knowing.

We are looking forward to sending the draft Welcome Guide to members of the SEWB workforce to provide feedback. Once we have finalised the feedback we look forward to launching this Guide with you all.

NDIS Ready Yarning Circle for Remote and Very Remote ACCHOS

The NDIS Ready Yarning Circle for Remote and Very Remote ACCHOS was an event held on the 7th, 8th and 9th of June 2022, hosted by the National Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisation (NACCHO). This event took place in Darwin.

The yarning circle was supported by ACCHOs to increase their readiness and capacity to deliver NDIS services for their communities through the NDIS Ready program.

Lenard Ansey The SEWB Learning and Development officer presented at the Yarning Circle and spoke about some of the struggles and challenges that he had to face growing up. This was a great professional development opportunity for Lenny. Other NDIS stories were presented by other Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who work and live in Remote areas they highlighted challenges they have experience with NDIS.

In closing, this was a good opportunity for Lenny to share his experiences and struggles as a proud Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander man who can hopefully make a change. He explained that it was great to be given the opportunity to have his voice heard as a good starting point.
